As one of the leading industrial safety gear suppliers, Tradegear knows how important it is to provide tradies with the best safety equipment possible – this is especially true when it comes to knee pads. While welding and mining knee pads have been in use for many years, recent improvements in the design and materials of our model will provide the user with the most comfortable and safe knee pads on the market today. Tradegear Safety Knee pads, designed in the USA and in use by professionals all over the western hemisphere and in Europe, provide the ultimate protection against on-the-job injuries to the knee and joint.

You will find that because of the unique jointed design and the EVA inner foam pad they will remain comfortable to wear during the entire work day. Therefore, because they are so comfortable, you won't have to worry about employees not wearing important safety equipment.
